GREETINGS FROM THE EAST

Happy October Brothers and welcome to the season of Summer's End.

As we begin the process of passing the torch or Hat to the new incoming WM, we take time to reflect and say thanks for all the gifts we all individually / collectively have received this year. Our health, our families and our fraternity. This year we have truly become a stronger and more fruitful fraternity. We have raised amazing and extraordinary gentlemen and the continued collaboration and brotherly love, has made us a stronger and more cohesive organization. We should all reflect on that core principle that we are here to make good men better men and that is exactly what we are doing.

I write this as I watch the world outside of our temple shatter and tear itself apart. Never in my life have I seen so much division and so many people take such hard and unapologetic perspectives, that quite often tie them into an unalienable belief, that they are in some way superior to their counterparts. The left is fighting the right, the masked are terrorizing the unmasked, and now we will begin to see even further manufactured division in our communities and Summer is coming to an end. Even our statue of Albert Pike was desecrated for subversive reasons. We all need to look in at ourselves for the answers to the chaos that is out there. We need to spread the messages that we hold so true to ourselves, that we are all on the level and that brotherly love prevails. As a beacon and by our very actions we should show the world by our example that we not only work to make each other better men, but we do not

GREETINGS FROM THE WEST

Welcome to the fall! As the weather is changing, we are reminded that 2021 is coming to a close. As a lodge we have a lot to be grateful for.

- We are conferring degrees weekly again.
- We have a strong “friend-to-friend” program with many candidates waiting.
- Social events are regularly happening with amazing camaraderie.

Next year’s officers have been holding regular ritual practice with the goal of doing perfect ritual.

Overall, there is great harmony in the lodge!

If you are a younger Mason I encourage you to find a lodge officer and see how you can get involved with ritual.

If you are a veteran Mason – find a lodge officer and see how you can help them be a better officer. Share your wisdom and institutional-knowledge of what it takes to be a good lodge officer. Mentors are necessary and constructive criticism is always welcome, but remember, build-up, don’t tear down. After all, we are part of one sacred band or society of friends among whom no contention should ever exist!

MY FRIEND IS THE MAN I WOULD COPY THROUGH LIFE

By M. P. Andrews.

My friend is the man I would copy through life,
He harbors no envy, he causes no strife,
No murmurs escape him, though fortune bears hard,
Content is his portion and peace his reward.
Still happy in his station,
He minds his occupation,
Nor heeds the snares, divide and conquer for our own nefarious and subversive purposes. We stand tall together and as one, we lift the torch, high and mighty, and illuminate the world in love, knowledge and truth.

We must beware of those who attempt to divide us internally and externally, for they only seek one thing, personal power and the desire to conquer.

To reflect on this I would like to put forward a poem:

Beware the Con Of Man:

The greatest schemes go unseen,
 Hidden behind a deceitful smokescreen,
 They wait,
 Luring the innocent to a darker fate,
 Of which they can not perceive,
 For the illusion they live in begins to weave,
 And although they try to leave,
 They cannot,
 Because the maze they traverse is part of a plot,
 A plot meant to make them become something they are not,
 A plot only attempted by those most bold,
 A plot only for those immune to the dark and the cold,
 And as always,
 They are in it for the gold,
 Which comes ever faster from the perfected art,
 That leaves them rich,
 But a world apart,
 From the simple beauties free from disguise,
 They accept this loss for a chance to devise,
 Why they do this no one can surmise,
 But it is this strange and warped mentality,
 That wills them to conspire,
 And alter reality.

Seek comfort my brothers that in us, in our fraternity, we work to build up temples and not tear them down.

From the East Continued

Live in light and happy summers end my brothers,

Fraternally,
 Jonathan D'Emilio
 Worshipful Master 2021

From the West continued from page 1

Nor knows the cares
 Which vice and folly bring,
 Daily working wearily,
 And nightly singing cheerily,
 Dear to him his wife, his home, his country, and king.
 His heart is enlarged, though his income is scant,
 He lessens his little for others that want;
 Though his dear children's claims on his industry press,
 He has something to spare for the child of distress.
 He seeks no idle squabble,
 He joins no thoughtless rabble.
 To clear his way
 From day to day
 His honest views extend;
 When he speaks it's verily,
 When he smiles it's merrily,
 Dear to him his sport, his toil, his honour, and his friend.
 How charming to find in his humble retreat
 That bliss so much sought, so unknown to the great,
 The wife only anxious her fondness to prove,
 The playful endearments of infantine love.
 Relaxing from his labors,
 Amid his welcome neighbors,
 With plain regale,
 With jest and tale,
 The happy hero see;
 No vain schemes confound him,
 All his joys surround him,
 Dear he holds his native land, its laws, and liberty!

From the South

Brethren,

It is great to be back from our Summer break and return to our labors at the lodge. I would like to thank all the Brothers with their help in the kitchen. I would also like to give a huge thanks to Brother Rich Davis who has really taken the initiative with helping our lodge with donations and catered dinners! We are very lucky to have him here at Scottsdale Lodge! Please enjoy an article from Brother Randy Sanders from the "Midnight Freemasons"

There's more to Prudence than just the practical example, and I missed that part in my considerations. The presentation doesn't need to deep dive into a sub-lecture in Prudence, but I needed to consider this more carefully. With some keyword searches and some reading, I stumbled across an article on Prudence that seemed to reflect and even summarize my thoughts.

"The word 'prudence' is used in several ways in contemporary English, and its different philosophical senses to some extent reflect that variety. Traditionally, Prudence is the ability to make morally discerning choices in general; but the term is also used to denote a habit of cautiousness in practical affairs; most recently, attempts have also been made to identify Prudence with practical rationality, perhaps even with the pursuit of the agent's own interests, without any specifically moral implications."

Morally discerning? Cautiousness in practical affairs? Practical rationality? Pursuit of interests without moral implications? What was this crazy talk?

However, I believe this author might be on to something, and that something might help Masons like me looking into the Cardinal and Theological Virtues. Practicality, morality, and cautiousness don't just pop out of thin air. We must work toward sharpening skills here, or in other words, we have been given working tools to assist us in bettering ourselves.

Bettering our skillset with regard to Prudence comes down to understanding three things about our own behavior, and this applies to each of the virtues. We have to gather knowledge. This can be an instantaneous snapshot from childhood warnings to look both ways before crossing streets, or it can be walking into a building and scanning for threat assessment – is there anyone here who potentially poses a threat/what is that threat? We apply our own acquired knowledge, hopefully as wisdom, toward this assessment of any given situation. We now make a decision based on our best judgment, and then we act in the best manner we can achieve—a little more on that.

Shawn Hunter
Junior Warden

FROM THE LIBRARY

I normally write about a book from the library or about something new in the Library. This month I am writing about a pamphlet that came to the library, that came to us from the estate of Brother Gary Underhill. Since I became a Mason I have been hearing about a number of Papal Bulls. I have been interested in reading these, but never came across one until now. This pamphlet is an official document of the Supreme Council of the Southern Jurisdiction of Scottish Rite of Freemasonry It was first published in its Transactions of 1884 as part of The Allocations of Sovereign Grand Commander Albert Pike

Beginning in 1738 and continuing, several of the popes have attacked and denounced Freemasonry. The one pronounced by Pope Leo XIII in 1884 was so false that Pike could not remain silent. Pike said it was not only a brutal attack on Freemasonry, but an attack upon the human race and progress,—"A war against constitutional government and freedom of conscience and Freemasonry, as their defender"

General Pike's reply is not only a masterpiece of dignified and scholarly argument in defense of the Masonic Order, but he volunteered to plead the case for all mankind civilization. It is a brilliant of literature and forensic oratory.

This is a great read and will be in the library shortly.

With the many Brothers who are bike riders, perhaps a #43 Group could be officially formed that would ride in parades and continue social activities together, while promoting Brotherhood and Masonry. If someone wants to head this up, please speak to our WM.

Note: Insurance riders would probably be needed.

NEEDED...RETIRED BROTHERS

We need retired brothers who would be willing to serve on the Celestial Journey Team (Funeral Team). We don't have too many funerals throughout the year normally. Sometimes there is not a lot of notice (a few days) and right now most of our list is comprised of working brothers who can't respond that quickly. Usually, the funerals only take an hour or less. Please consider dedicating your efforts to your departed brothers by serving on the Celestial Journey Team. Email Brother Steve Clarke eispro@leaders-view.com with your email address and phone number. Call him with questions at 480-946-5390. Thank you!

Arizona Grand Lodge Website

In an ongoing effort to keep in touch with the Masons of Arizona, the Social Media Committee of the Grand Lodge of Arizona has launched an online Social Media monthly newsletter to recap some of the items each month that are trending around the State.

We hope that it will encourage communication and share knowledge around the State while also giving another outlet to the activities of our many Lodges in Arizona. As is the case with Social Media, we intend for it to be enjoyable and informative and hope that it will grow and adapt to the needs and wants of our Craft as it progresses.

From Eastern Star

Do you have the date Sunday September 26th on your calendar? Have you made reservations with Linda Sayre (480-998-7018) for the Luau Luncheon at 12 Noon? Hopefully, this reminder will move you to action and get that done! I love having a plan for lunch/dinner so that I don't have to cook.

Another "no cook" Sunday dinner is 'coming up'. October 17th at 4pm. You can make reservations again with Linda Sayre.

Eastern Star will start the busy fall schedule with the 1st meeting on September 27th; and it will be great to have normal meetings again.

CELESTIAL JOURNEY TEAM

The roll of the workmen has been called, and a Master Mason has not answered to his name. he has laid down the working tools of the Craft and with them left that mortal part for which he no longer has use.

His labors here have taught him to divest his heart and conscience of the vices and superfluities of life, thereby fitting his mind as (a) living stone(s) for that spiritual building – that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

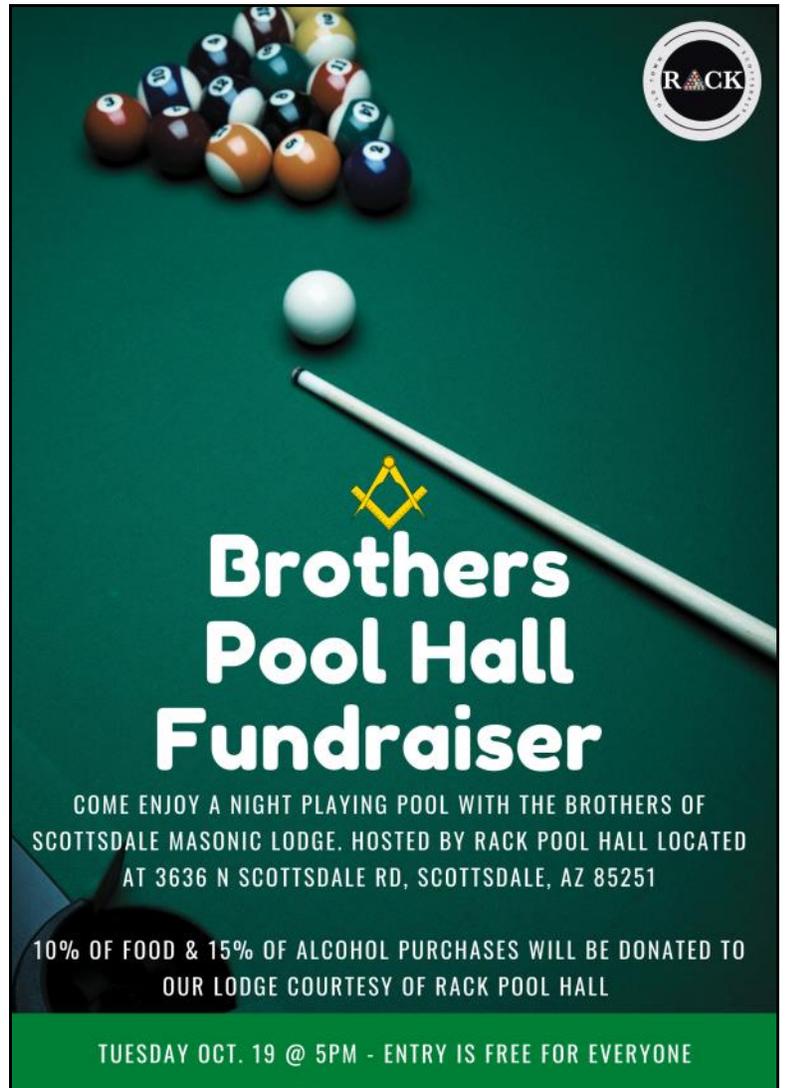

Strengthened in his labors here by faith in the Supreme Being, and confident of expectation of immortality, he has sought admission to the Celestial Lodge above.

Masonic Education

We Masons Are a Peculiar Bunch!

As I read through Masonic Ritual there are, from time to time, individual words that stand out in a peculiar, or particular way. One of those words, often misunderstood, is “peculiar,” which is often misunderstood as first and foremost meaning “strange, odd, or curious.” In the sense of the application of the word to Freemasonry, I think the best definition is the first one we find in Merriam-Webster’s dictionary, which is “characteristic of only one person, group, or thing: distinctive.”

We Masons are a peculiar bunch, aren’t we? Most fraternal organizations in the United States, such as the Elks, the Moose, and the Eagles, are informally bound to some moment of ritual; here I’ll cite the American Legion which uses the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the Preamble to the Legion’s Constitution – but then they default, almost completely uniformly to Robert’s Rules of Order.

Not Masons! We are a peculiar bunch. We have a ritual that guides our entire proceedings. From start to finish in our meetings we operate with a particular set of guidelines to be found in no other organization. When we are conducting business, the ritual is ever there to guide us. Sure, there are many elements of Parliamentary Procedure which we may at times leverage, but in a well governed Lodge we have harmony, and the unwritten rules of dignity, respect, and decorum rule the day, and we have no need for the many encumbrances of Robert’s Rules.

Election of candidates to those other organizations is generally a majority rules affair, with anyone who meets basic criteria drawing the general approval of the majority, and thereby being allowed to join the institution with no expectation that one will comport themselves with any kind of ideology while outside the organization. There are almost no expectations that a person affiliated with any of the Animal fraternities will be an Ambassador of the organization while abroad in the world.

Not Masons! We are a peculiar bunch. Our behavior outside the Lodge affects the way the public thinks of Masonry in ways that no one ever applies to any other fraternity. We have an expectation that all members of any Lodge to which a candidate (or even a Brother!) may apply, on the night of his election, MUST cast a vote, for the good of the Lodge, and for the good of Masonry. Once elected, we police one another’s conduct, to see that each of us improves the other and maintains some of that Masonic bearing which we were taught as Entered Apprentices. We expect each other to act in accordance with certain virtues, tenets, and in respect of certain beliefs. We expect that each of us will act as builders of a house which none of us can see, but in which all of us hope to one day live.

So, as you move through your day, today, and every day, remember just how peculiar you are, because of Masonry, and let that peculiarity radiate from you, and outward, into the world.

Fraternally,
David Earney

Optimism

"Optimism is the faith that leads to achievement. Nothing can be done without hope and confidence." Helen Keller Such simple wisdom from someone whose adversities were such as to be unimaginable.

We can envision an idea, but too often dismiss achievements as impossible. Perhaps it might turn out that way, but impossible results can only be reached striving to the end. Striving kicks end when optimism takes over. How can you be optimistic when expected results are counted as surely negative? Think of trying to overcome the impossible as a learning process. Let's say you pick up a violin for the first time. Playing the violin is impossible, but patience, practice, instruction, and time is the learning process. Resolve to really try to achieve that which seems to be impossible. If it seems to be like a brick wall, believe there must be a way over, under, or around it somehow, but expend the effort, time, and belief. If all that fails, then that will tell you then that you have done the best that you could to breach the wall of impossibility. You have gotten your answer.
